Connie Hanzhang Jin

Visual journalism, web design and development, art and illustration

Education
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Bachelors in Media and Journalism with Specialization in Interactive Multimedia, Minor in Studio Art

Skills
Adobe Photoshop, InDesign, Premiere, Illustrator, Experience Design, JavaScript, Java, HTML, CSS, GitHub/Git version control, Python, Django, Wordpress, Figma, D3, QGIS

connie.jin97@gmail.com
(919) 272 -1316
conniehanzhangjin.com

Graphics Reporter at NPR
January 2020 – present
Producing graphics, data visualizations, comics and other visual presentations for newsroom needs.

Occasionally assigning and editing graphics as needed.

News Apps Designer Intern at NPR
September 2019 – December 2019
Created data visualizations and graphics on a team of five designers/developers.

Built graphics and maps with D3, HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Adobe Illustrator and QGIS.

Data Visuals Fellow at The Texas Tribune
June 2019 – August 2019
Collaborated on a small hybrid news application and graphics team of five people to tell data-driven, visual stories.

Contributed and pitched graphics with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, QGIS and Adobe Illustrator.

Design Assistant at Carolina Union Communications and Creative Services
June 2018 – May 2019
Created signage, t-shirts, installations, flyers, logos and other deliverables for student organizations, university departments and university events.

Expected to work on multiple projects and independently manage deadlines and fulfill client requests.